

“The People of Westland Row before and after Joyce”

A lecture organized by St Andrew's Resource Center and
Trinity College Dublin

W.J. Mc Cormack

W.J. Mc Cormack is one of Ireland's leading literary historians and critics.

Formerly Professor of English at Goldsmiths College, London, he is the author of many books, the most recent of which is “Dublin 1916: the French Connection”.

Writing as Hugh Maxton he is a distinguished poet whose most recent collection is entitled “Same Bridge Perhaps: And Other Fugitive Poems”

Venue: Waterways Visitor Centre

Date & Time: Fri 14th June @ 1.00p.m.

All are welcome and admission is free

Contact: Betty Ashe : betty.ashe.ices@gmail.com

St Andrew's Resource Centre

